The world is both heaven and hell
on earth.

And to walk with God
is not to escape one,

but to pass through both
without losing your soul.

He does not promise comfort.
He promises presence.

And presence is enough.